MINERS RETURN TO THEIR JOBS

Captive Pits Operating Again After Stopping During Strike

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24—With an early return to capacity production anticipated, the flow of coal from the nation's captive mines to the hungry, roaring furnaces turning out steel vital to the nation's defense program was resumed today as the Appalachian coal field's strike came to an end.

Steel mills, forced to curtail operations by rapidly vanishing reserve supplies of coal last week, were expected to reach normal operations again by the middle of the week at the latest.

In terms of dollars and cents, the 26,000 captive miners who walked out last Monday to support demands for a union shop in the steel companies' private pits, lost an estimated $356,000 in wages. Commercial miners, who struck in sympathy, lost an estimated $4,200,000 in wages, and in addition face fines totalling $500,000 for violating their Appalachian contract.

Production losses as a result of the week-long strike, in the Pittsburgh district alone—the heart and soul of the steel industry—were estimated at 14,000 tons of steel ingots, 16,000 tons of pig iron, 12,000 tons of by-product coke, and 20,000 tons of beehive coke.

REICH PUPPETS MEET IN BERLIN FOR CONFERENCE

BERLIN, Nov. 24—Delegates of the thirteen European and Asiatic nations which have thrown in their lot with Nazi Germany began arriving in Berlin today for a full-dress conference which will extend the anti-Comintern pact for another five years.

First of the major statesmen to arrive was Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy, who was formally welcomed by German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

The other delegations, numbering between three and 12 representatives apiece, arrived throughout the day.

The conference will open formally at Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's chancellery tomorrow. There will be certain introductory formalities, such as the placing of wreaths on the German war memorial, before actual conversations get under way.

France was not invited to participate as Franco-German relations still are based on the armistice alone. Authentic quarters intimated that certain other countries "which prefer to remain outside the world front" were not asked.

Their names were not mentioned. But it was known that Sweden, Switzerland and Portugal had sent no emissaries.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 — John Barrymore was recovering in the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital from an attack of intestinal flu today. The actor was stricken Saturday while on the set.

ON the British campaign in Libya may hinge control of the Mediterranean, according to military experts. The British troops are reported deep in Italian territory, well past Tobruk, where a British garrison has held out for seven months. Broken line shows the supply route through French Tunisia, aimed at by Hitler.

Seven of Duce's Ships Hauling Reinforcements To Africa Reported Hit

LONDON, Nov. 24—Bomb and torpedo hits on seven Italian ships, including four war vessels, were claimed today in official British announcements which said a Fascist cruiser and destroyer were believed to have been sunk.

The Italian ships were intercepted by British naval and air forces while trying to rush reinforcements and supplies across the Mediterranean to Libya.

An admiralty communiqué said a British submarine "torpedoed and possibly sank" an Italian cruiser and that a destroyer also was "probably sunk."

Earlier a Cairo communiqué said British bombers attacked an axis convoy escorted by a cruiser and five destroyers, scoring a direct aerial torpedo hit on the cruiser and a square bomb hit on a large supply vessel.

This bulletin added that a British air attack on the axis-occupied Greek island port of Argostoli had registered a bomb hit on a "naval vessel which was left with a heavy list" and that Italian patrol ships in the harbor were raked by machine gun fire.

The admiralty communiqué related: "An enemy cruiser has been torpedoed and possibly sunk by a submarine of the Mediterranean fleet. When the cruiser was attacked it formed part of a force of three cruisers and three destroyers."

"This force subsequently was sighted by our aircraft. Only two cruisers were then seen and a large area of the sea in the vicinity was covered with oil fuel."

"An enemy destroyer was also hit by two torpedoes and probably sunk. Two enemy supply ships were torpedoed."

"All of these successes were achieved in the central Mediterranean."

BERLIN—A successful bombing attack on a British radio station in the Shetland Islands and a night Luftwaffe raid on the English port of Falmouth were announced by a German war communiqué today.

KUIBYSHEV—The Communist newspaper Pravda claimed today that more than 600 German planes have been shot down since the beginning of the Russo-German conflict over the approaches to Moscow alone. ### ELECTION BOARD RULES BEAVERS SCIOTO TRUSTEE

The election board Monday officially declared Harold M. Beavers elected trustee of Scioto Township.

Russell Imbler, chairman of the board, said there would be no change in the settlement of the tie vote between Beavers and Paul W. Beers, the board's original decision to pronounce Beavers elected on a coin toss being final.

Both Beavers and Beers received 192 votes in the election, and the recount, requested by Beers, resulted in no change from the original balloting.

BERLIN, Nov. 24—A sensational new advance which brought German troops within 30 miles of Moscow was claimed by the German high command today.

A high command war communiqué issued from Chancellor Hitler's military quarters said: "The German offensive gained further ground on the Central Sector."

At the same time, Soviet advisers claimed a major Red army victory on the Southern Front west of Rostov.

Admission that the Russians have been pushed back in the Moscow zone came as masses of Nazi tanks and infantry troops hammered against the capital's defenses in a vast new offensive.

THREE CHILDREN LOSE LIVES AS HOME IS BURNED

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24 — Three small children were dead today, trapped in the flaming collapse of the frame dwelling in which they lived at nearby Northfield.

The victims were Janet, 6; John, 5; and Edward Huntington, 18 months. Donald Huntington, 35, father of the children, was near death in a hospital of severe burns, and his wife, Helena, 30, and an eight-month-old infant, Daniel, were being treated for burns.

Huntington was a machinist for the Cleveland Plant of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co.

Chief Howard M. Brown of the Northfield volunteer fire department said it was possible that fumes from one of two coal stoves in the house could have been ignited from the heat. The blaze spread so rapidly through the house that it was beyond control when the firemen arrived.

The children were trapped on the second floor.

CANTON MAN ARRESTED FOR KILLING DAUGHTER

CANTON, Nov. 24 — Buffert Ray Doney, 47, was to be charged today with the murder of his daughter, Mrs. Almeda B. Whitmer, 23, according to Stark County Prosecutor A. C. L. Barthelmech.

According to the written statement police said he gave them after his arrest, Doney shot his daughter because she sided with her mother in a family quarrel.

Doney, Barthelmech said, entered the Whitmer home and at the point of a gun forced his daughter to walk for more than a mile to the scene of the fatal shooting.

Anti-Strike Drive Gains More Speed

Hope For Adjustment Of Rail Dispute Voiced In Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—With President Roosevelt reportedly favoring both a "cooling off" period before strikes and a secret rank-and-file ballot on walkouts, the congressional drive for anti-strike legislation was resumed today, despite end of the soft coal strike.

Conceding that the arbitration plan agreed to by United Mine Workers Chief John L. Lewis will take the "heat" off Congress, leaders of the anti-strike legislation movement nevertheless saw a chance for success.

Congress for days has been bombarded with demands for action as a result of the strike in mines owned and operated by major steel companies which, with commercial mine stoppages, cut down steel defense production.

There was some uneasiness over the railroad strike, called for December 7, but hope for adjustment of this dispute rose with announcement that direct negotiations, which broke up last Friday, would be resumed today.

Spokesmen for the railroads' negotiating committee announced it would meet first with the representatives of the five operating brotherhoods of trainmen, then, with the 14 non-operating labor union chiefs.

Acceptance by Lewis of binding arbitration on the closed shop issue in the captive coal mines put that issue in the hands of the three-man arbitration board.

The board, consisting of Lewis, Benjamin Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, as member for the mine owners, and John R. Steelman, Labor Department conciliation chief representing the public, may reach a decision within the week.

They have only one matter to decide—whether the United Mine Workers are entitled to a union shop which was the sole issue in the week-long strike.

Mr. Roosevelt's belief that Congress should act despite the settlement of the mine walkout was made known through Rep. Mary T. Norton (D) N. J., chairman of the House Labor Committee, who called the committee into session today to consider legislative proposals.

A senate judiciary subcommittee considering the Connally bill, which would give the President wide power to seize strike-bound industries, was to hear testimony by Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal.

MEMORIAL HALL STATUS VIEWED

Solicitor Informs County Commissioners City To Give Up Its Rights

Question of maintaining Memorial Hall came before County Commissioners again Monday when Joseph W. Adkins, city solicitor, went before them with a notice from Council that the city had abandoned its right to the 99-year lease it held on the building and could assume no more of the expenses incurred there.

Tom A. Renick, chairman of the Library Board of Trustees, said he would go before the commissioners during the day in an effort to work out some plan whereby the library might continue to function during the winter.

Commissioners are uncertain that they have the right to take over the building since, although the building belongs to the county, operations there according to statute are to be governed by the Board of Trustees of the Monumental Association.

The White House said that U. S. troops would be withdrawn "as soon as the present danger to the mines is removed and at the latest at conclusion of hostilities."

Give Up Its Rights

Question of maintaining Memorial Hall came before County Commissioners again Monday when Joseph W. Adkins, city solicitor, went before them with a notice from Council that the city had abandoned its right to the 99-year lease it held on the building and could assume no more of the expenses incurred there.

Tom A. Renick, chairman of the Library Board of Trustees, said he would go before the commissioners during the day in an effort to work out some plan whereby the library might continue to function during the winter.

Commissioners are uncertain that they have the right to take over the building since, although the building belongs to the county, operations there according to statute are to be governed by the Board of Trustees of the Monumental Association.

BRAZILIANS FAVOR MOVE

Need For Protection Of Vital Supplies Cited
By White House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 — The White House today announced that a contingent of United States Army troops will occupy Dutch Guiana to completely insure the safety of the bauxite mines there.

The decision to send U. S. troops into the South American Dutch possession was reached after consultation with the Dutch government-in-exile in London in which the Brazilian government concurred.

The mines involved supply 60 percent of the United States' requirements for aluminum and are a vital military necessity.

The White House said that U. S. troops would be withdrawn "as soon as the present danger to the mines is removed and at the latest at conclusion of hostilities."

U. S. Consulate in Indo-China Struck

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 — The State Department announced today that the American consulate at Saigon, French Indo-China, was wrecked by a bomb last night.

The department said that no member of the staff had been injured, and complete details were lacking.

Officials declared that this was the first occurrence of damage to any American diplomatic post during the war in the Far East.

The official announcement said: "The State Department is informed that the American consulate at Saigon, French Indo-China was wrecked by a bomb last night.

"It was reported that no member of the staff was injured.

"Members of the staff are consul, Sidney H. Browne, vice-consul, Kingsley W. Hamilton and an American clerk, Miss Carolyn C. Jacobs."

The State Department said that Browne's home is at Short Hills, N. J., Hamilton's at Wooster, Ohio, and Miss Jacobs is from Richmond, Mo.

It's a simple variation that takes only a few minutes longer than the usual method, but the reward is worth the extra effort. The baked potato section suggests many of these interesting dishes including au Gratin Stuffed Potatoes, Oyster Baked Potatoes, Pigs in 'Taters, Brabant Potatoes, Potato Charlotte, Potato and Bean Cullets and many others.

Fried potatoes are a boon to the budgeteer who welcomes suggestions for the use of leftovers. When leftovers are served in potato twists, they seem like a treat instead of an economy. Among the fried potato ideas are Lyonnaise Potatoes, Liver Sausage Cakes, Potato Nests, Toasted Potato Balls, Potato Croquettes, Salmon Cakes, Potato Pancakes, Potato Omelet, Potato Fritters, and the ever popular French Fried Potatoes in a number of new ways.

Don't forget sweet potatoes! The Potato Book covers this subject so thoroughly you'll be baking, creaming, frying and mashing these succulent yams more frequently than ever. For a really novel and luscious treatment, stuff glazed sweet potatoes with tangy cranberry sauce. They'll make everything else on the menu taste twice as good.

NORWEGIAN SPIRIT
THERE are lies and lies, and the one supposedly told by a Norwegian sailor to some German prisoners, though useless, must have been very satisfying to the teller.
As the story is repeated here, the Germans were part of a U-Boat crew who had been rescued by a British freighter. They had been kept below decks for some time, but as the boat entered the Clyde River in Scotland the men were allowed on the deck and had an unobstructed view of activity on shore. They saw shipyards docks, slips and plants, men working and ships in various stages of construction. Amazed, they asked the Norwegian sentry who was guarding them what place they were in and were further stunned by his answer.

It was the single word, "Narvik."
It wasn't true, of course, but it expressed the spirit of millions of Norwegians and particularly the brave citizens of little Narvik. Given any sort of fair opportunity at all, they would be active and industrious at any task that would help to oust the Nazis. In that respect, at least, the sentry's false answer had a core of truth.

A CASE FOR SOLOMON
HERE is a case in real life that should interest people who like to puzzle over crime problems. It concerns an Ohio woman, aged 21, dark-haired and solemn-faced, mother of two children. She was recently found guilty of poisoning her little son, four months old. The child recovered. She was sentenced to a term in prison but is now to have a new trial. Her defense is said to be unprecedented.
The mother was very poor and worked in a hat factory for $6 a week, leaving the baby with a neighbor during the day. She maintains that she had no intention of harming her baby. He was sickly, unable to digest his food and had convulsions. At the age of three months he was cared for in a hospital for a month, then returned to his mother. His illness recurred. When she tried to get him into the hospital again, she says, they told her they wouldn't take him back unless he was "good and sick."
So, the mother explains, she gave her baby "two or three drops" of a strong disinfectant, just to make him sick enough so that the hospital would take care of him. But the child nearly died. The hospital people evidently thought she had tried to kill him, and so did the jury. But she has

WORLD AT A GLANCE

AMERICAN newspapermen do not like being censored. Possibly the press in other countries dislike it also, but it's accustomed to it pretty well all over Europe. Here the boys are not, and they're pretty skittish of any hints of a censorial tendency. Most particularly they resent the idea of being regulated, here in the United States, by suggestions from England.
News scribes, of course, are a larger percentage of the population of Washington than of any other spot on earth and it's also into Washington that British protests concerning the volume of Yankee publicity pour. Consequently the capital's correspondent corps is in a position to be well aware of the flood of 'em. And, believe me, if John Bull's hush-hush organization did but know it, its persistent advice to our officialdom to cork up the chaps' information sources on our side of the water is rapidly getting the London outfit into extreme disfavor with a gang that has a good bit to do with shaping public opinion in this hemisphere. I hear growls about it on every hand.
The British apparently won't be satisfied with a policy of mere silence on the part of American officials in possession of information that reporters are in quest of. The lads find out a lot of things that aren't told to 'em directly, and London evidently wants 'em forbidden to write such stuff after they get it somehow or other, and are certain it's true.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON — The inner moguls of the America First Committee have some secret and highly significant plans up their sleeve. These plans touch the realms of politics and propaganda.

They were lengthily discussed last week at a secret Washington meeting of the ruling members of the America First executive board. Also present were Senators Burt Wheeler and Gerald Nye, Representative Karl Mundt, South Dakota Republican, and Archbishop Francis Beckman of Dubuque, Iowa. General Robert Wood, America First boss, presided.

The plans deliberated covered a four-point program:

1. A move to impeach Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.
2. An anti-war drive among the clergy of the country on the basis that Communism will sweep over the United States if it becomes involved in war.
3. Redoubling of isolationist agitation, with scores of Lindbergh, Wheeler, Nye, and other rallies in every section of the country, coupled with an intensified radio barrage.
4. Organization of a new political party to back isolationist congressional and state candidates in next year's crucial elections, as a prelude to a presidential ticket in 1944, headed by Lindbergh and Wheeler.

President Roosevelt was originally considered for an impeachment attack, but this was dropped as likely to boomerang against the America Firsters. It was also decided that such an attack would get nowhere on Capital Hill because of Democratic control of Congress.

Knox was substituted as the victim because he is the most outspoken cabinet exponent of war, has incurred much criticism because of attempts to censor the press, and is bitterly hated by Republican isolationists because he entered the Roosevelt cabinet.

It was the opinion of the America Firsters that these background factors would play powerfully into their hands in enabling them to start an impeachment hullabaloo.

Actually they know there is no chance to impeach Knox. Their real purpose is to get a congressional forum to wage a propaganda offensive against the President's foreign policies; also to push their secret political plans.

THE AMERICAN PARTY
These plans have been under consideration in the inner America First command for some time.

Two of the chief advocates of a new political party, are Lindbergh and Phil LaFollette, former Governor of Wisconsin and younger brother of isolationist U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette. Phil has

How Diagnosis Started Decline in Tuberculosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
At this time of the year when we are trying to help out the sale of Christmas seals to further the work of the National Tuberculosis Association, I should like to quote

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

a remarkable address I heard a doctor make to other doctors called, "The Historical Importance of Removing the Shirt."

He pointed out that in the pictures, cartoons and the general literature of the Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries the doctor was depicted as a very low fellow. In Hogarth's cartoons, Moliere's plays, in the novel "Gil Blas," the doctor is shown as a funny, ignorant, dirty, grafting quack. They made fun of his prattings, preachings, bumptious manner and especially his ignorance.

Attains New Dignity
At the beginning of the Nineteenth Century, however, the doctor suddenly assumes a character of dignity and nobility in literature and art. Stevenson and Thackeray, John Brown, Conan Doyle and Eakins show the doctor at work, and he is turned into a fellow of high principles and usefulness. What was the cause of the sudden change?

Dr. W. M. Dock of New York assigns the change to two discoveries, one being that of the Austrian, Auenbrugger, who invented a method of tapping the chest with the fingers (percussion) and that of the Frenchman, Laennec, who invented the stethoscope to listen to the chest. In order to do this, the patient had to take off his shirt so the doctor could examine him.

These discoveries put the examination of the patient on a scientific basis. Before that the patient told the doctor what was the matter; after the doctor made the patient remove his shirt and examined him, the doctor told the patient what was the matter. Before that, all the doctor did was listen to the pulse and look at the tongue. He left the shirt on.

These two discoveries really initiated modern scientific medicine. Besides that, the doctor both literally and figuratively got closer to his patient. They are probably more important in the history of tuberculosis than any other disease. Actually the beginning of the conquest of the age-old disease of tuberculosis began at the time when doctors began to remove the patient's shirt. The decline in the death rate of tuberculosis has been steady since that time and step by step with this increase in control of the disease has been an increase in the knowledge of objective methods of studying the human being who is a sick patient.

Following Auenbrugger and Laennec there came the discovery of the tubercle bacillus by Koch and following that, the use of the x-ray, discovered by Roentgen. And from these there came our modern methods of treatment by rest, fresh air and collapse of the lung.

Only after we knew the cause of the disease and the nature of its spread, could we initiate methods of prevention which consist in detecting all carriers and the removal of all patients from a household where they might infect others.

"My feminine intuition is telling me a lot," Irene retorted. "But not anything I'd care to speak aloud."

"Shhh!" said Roy. "Don't shush me, Roy Leonard," Irene said angrily.

Roy faced Susan, who had been talking with Mrs. Jones. "Here we are!" he said. "Here's our car."

"Oh, what a lovely automobile!" said Susan. "Just like the one Hedy Lemarr drove in her last picture."

Mr. Jones sighed. "Such a sweet, unspoiled child!" he said. "And see," said Mrs. Jones, "that she stays that way."

Susan got into the rear of the car, and sat between Mr. and Mrs. Jones. Roy sat upon one of the smaller, folding seats. Irene sat upon the other.

The car moved out into Broadway, preceded by a truck in which rode the ten members of the band, still playing "Dixie." Behind them came other cars carrying the officers of the Dainty Diana Dairies and their wives. The Meyer twins, in one of these cars, were trying to hold aloft the banner which had now become a part of them—or so they felt.

"We're going straight to the Astor-Waldorf hotel," Mr. Jones was saying, "so that you can have a short rest before Mr. Leonard brings you to the luncheon Dainty Diana Dairies is giving for you."

"You'll have time, too," said Irene Carter, "to change into your gingham dress and sunbonnet."

"She's not going to wear that," said Roy, "until she makes her broadcast."

"I can hardly wait," said Irene. "Mrs. Jones waited Susan's hand."

"And I'm having a dinner for you," she said. "You're to have a quiet time with the important Dainty Diana Dairies people before you go to make your broadcast."

She smiled. "I thought it would help to make you feel sort of at home, you know."

"I should say so!" said Irene. "When you get to the offices, get them to show you the sales chart. It looks like the pictures of a sky-rocket sailing upward, and—"

"No business talk," Mr. Jones cut in. "Miss Farmer isn't supposed to know about such things, and wouldn't be interested anyway."

"Oh, but I AM interested!" said Susan. "We typical farmwife daughters have to know about such things; you know, in order to get good prices for our products." She turned to Roy. "You must be sure and show me those charts Miss Carter referred to."

"You bet I will!" said Roy. Up Broadway to Fifty-fifth—through Fifty-fifth to Radio Center. And then toward Park avenue. "Radio Center!" Susan exclaimed. "That's the place where they make radio, isn't it?"

"It's where the broadcasting stations are," said Roy. "You're to broadcast from there yourself."

"Little me—Susan Ann Farmer of Ardendale—in one of those tall buildings!" said Susan. "Just imagine! And with all the folks down south listening to me. Goodness, just thinking about it makes me feel all trembly down inside."

Irene leaned toward Roy. "Maybe a drink would do her good," she said.

"Shut up!" said Roy. "What are you two mumbbling about?" Mr. Jones asked.

"Just a few last-moment suggestions," said Irene. "And the band went on playing 'Dixie.'"

"I wish," said Rose Meyer wearily, "they'd change to 'Oh, Johnny, Oh' or 'Yankee Doodle'—I was never so tired of listening to one tune."

"If they'd only swing it," said Lily.

"Girls, girls!" said their mother. The parade moved on. Across Fifth avenue. . . . Across Madison.

"That," said Mr. Jones, pointing to the twin towers of the Astor-Waldorf, "is where you're going to stay, my dear."

Susan gasped. "In that great big hotel?" she said.

"Yes, my dear," said Mr. Jones. "But everything's going to be all right."

"Just ducky," said Irene under her breath.

Mrs. Jones eyed her husband across Susan Farmer, thinking, "Does he have to 'my dear' her like that—the sentimental old idiot? Then, glancing sidelong at Susan, she began to wonder. In fact, she did quite a bit of wondering—and most of it made her feel decidedly uneasy.

"All we need," said Roy, as they approached the hotel, "is a shower of ticker-tape, falling like snowflakes."

"You mean like when Lindbergh came home?" said Susan.

"Yes," said Roy. "Just like that." "And like when the flagpole-sitting triplets arrived in the city," said Irene. She shrugged. "They also throw telephone directories."

"Goodness me!" said Susan. "Didn't anyone get hurt?"

"They tore them up first," Roy explained. "And don't pay too much attention to Miss Carter. She lets her sense of humor get the best of her at times."

"Oh!" said Susan. "Yes, they tore up the directories first," said Irene. But when she saw the look Susan Farmer was giving Roy Leonard, she thought how nice it would be to throw a telephone directory which she hadn't bothered to tear up.

A few moments later Susan, the typical farmwife's daughter, was being whisked up to one of the twin towers of the massive Park avenue hotel.

When everyone was crowded into the sitting room of the suite the Dainty Diana Dairies had reserved for Susan, Mr. Jones spoke.

"We've arranged a press conference for tomorrow morning at 11," he said.

"A press conference?" said Susan, wide-eyed. "Just what do you mean?"

"Reporters," said Roy. "From various papers."

"Oh!" said Susan. "You mean like those Mr. Roosevelt has?"

"And Mrs. Roosevelt, too," said Irene.

Susan smiled. "A sort of fireside chat, I see."

"Exactly!" said Mr. Jones. "But," said Susan, looking around, "I don't see any fireplace."

"Ouch!" said Irene softly. "Innocence personified, or a darned good actress."

"Keep quiet," Roy told her. And then to Susan: "Just use your imagination."

"Yes," said Mr. Jones. "And be natural. Act as though you were in the living room back home, talking to a lot of friends."

"I'll try," said Susan.

Mr. Jones patted her shoulder, and Mrs. Jones wanted to do something more strenuous to him.

"Talk about life on the farm," he said. "Give them some insight into what a typical farmwife's daughter really thinks about."

"If they think," said Irene. "What's that?" Mr. Jones demanded.

"Nothing," said Irene.

Mr. Jones went on. "Tell them about your pets, the chickens, how much milk Emerald gives, and about the prizes your pickles and preserves have won at the County fairs."

"All right," Susan told him. "I'll do my best."

NORWEGIAN SPIRIT

THERE are lies and lies, and the one supposedly told by a Norwegian sailor to some German prisoners, though useless, must have been very satisfying to the teller.

As the story is repeated here, the Germans were part of a U-Boat crew who had been rescued by a British freighter. They had been kept below decks for some time, but as the boat entered the Clyde River in Scotland the men were allowed on the deck and had an unobstructed view of activity on shore. They saw shipyard docks, slips and plants, men working and ships in various stages of construction. Amazed, they asked the Norwegian sentry who was guarding them what place they were in and were further stunned by his answer.

It was the single word, "Narvik." It wasn't true, of course, but it expressed the spirit of millions of Norwegians and particularly the brave citizens of Little Narvik. Given any sort of fair opportunity at all, they would be active and industrious at any task that would help to oust the Nazis. In that respect, at least, the sentry's false answer had a core of truth.

A CASE FOR SOLOMON

HERE is a case in real life that should interest people who like to puzzle over crime problems. It concerns an Ohio woman, aged 21, dark-haired and solemn-faced, mother of two children. She was recently found guilty of poisoning her little son, four months old. The child recovered. She was sentenced to a term in prison but is now to have a new trial. Her defense is said to be unprecedented.

The mother was very poor and worked in a hat factory for $6 a week, leaving the baby with a neighbor during the day. She maintains that she had no intention of harming her baby. He was sickly, unable to digest his food and had convulsions. At the age of three months he was cared for in a hospital for a month, then returned to his mother. His illness recurred. When she tried to get him into the hospital again, she says, they told her they wouldn't take him back unless he was "good and sick."

So, the mother explains, she gave her baby "two or three drops" of a strong disinfectant, just to make him sick enough so that the hospital would take care of him. But the child nearly died. The hospital people evidently thought she had tried to kill him, and so did the jury. But she has

By Charles P. Stewart

AMERICAN newspapermen do not like being censored. Possibly the press in other countries dislike it also, but it's accustomed to it pretty well all over Europe. Here the boys are not, and they're pretty skittish of any hints of a censorial tendency. Most particularly they resent the idea of being regulated, here in the United States, by suggestions from England.

News scribes, of course, are a larger percentage of the population of Washington than of any other spot on earth and it's also into Washington that British protests concerning the volume of Yankee publicity pour. Consequently the capital's correspondent corps is in a position to be well aware of the flood of 'em. And, believe me, if John Bull's hush-hush organization did but know it, its persistent advice to our officialdom to cork up the chaps' information sources on our side of the water is rapidly getting the London outfit into extreme disfavor with a gang that has a good bit to do with shaping public opinion in this hemisphere. I hear growls about it on every hand.

The British apparently won't be satisfied with a policy of mere silence on the part of American officials in possession of information that reporters are in quest of. The lads find out 'em directly, and London evidently wants 'em forbidden to write such stuff after they get it somehow or other, and are certain it's true.

THE CAPITAL'S SET-UP

The Washington situation's peculiar. Every department and agency, including the emergency groups, has its publicity staff, and there are classes of news that these birds not only are willing to disclose but anxious to have as wide broadcast as possible. Naturally they're under more or less obligation to the correspondents who help 'em to do it, and it's rather difficult for 'em to be disabbling when one of the fellows asks 'em a question on some subject that perhaps it isn't quite desirable to have discussed in print. Probably there are injudicious leaks of this sort.

A case in point was that of the maritime commission's announcement, some time ago, that military supplies for Russia thenceforward would be sent via Boston and Archangel. Letting that item out, as President Roosevelt subsequently remarked, was like notifying Hitler by cable of the new route. Then the story was officially denied, but scarcely anyone believed that the denial would fool Adolf, considering that Boston-Archangel is a heap shorter way of getting into European Russia than the run by way of Vladivostok or the Persian Gulf.

It was one of the yarns, anyway, that London has contended we shouldn't have permitted to leak out.

LEASE-LEND DETAILS

Furthermore, we've publicized details relative to the character of lease-lend commodities we're shipping to England—tanks, planes and that class of stuff.

Maybe, Washington correspondents agree, the Nazis did acquire certain tips from this publicity, but their thesis is that censorial complaints concerning it come with a poor grace from the English, in view of the terms upon which they're getting their lease-lend stuff—and that what we print is none of their business, besides. The British are obviously reluctant to say so in plain terms, but the Washington press gang's impression is that they're trying to inspire creation of an American out-and-out censorship to operate in collaboration with their own.

The scheme undoubtedly has been broached to Uncle Sam's London embassy, which is said, however, to be decidedly apprehensive of it, doubtless realizing that the American press is anything but enthusiastic over the notion of being censored, especially from abroad.

Government officials in Washington generally concur that we shouldn't have a Yankee censorship—under THAT NAME, even if we get into the war. It'll be called a Committee or Bureau of Public Information, they say, as in the last war, George Creel was head of it and George, in a published article the other day, declared for all colors of publicity—of the RIGHT KIND. He had experience enough to make him a competent authority.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON — The inner moguls of the America First Committee have some secret and highly significant plans up their sleeve. These plans touch the realms of politics and propaganda.

They were lengthily discussed last week at a secret Washington meeting of the ruling members of the America First executive board. Also present were Senators Burt Wheeler and Gerald Nye, Representative Karl Mundt, South Dakota Republican, and Archbishop Francis Beckman of Dubuque, Iowa. General Robert Wood, America First boss, presided.

The plans deliberated covered a four-point program:

1. A move to impeach Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.
2. An anti-war drive among the clergy of the country on the basis that Communism will sweep over the United States if it becomes involved in war.
3. Redoubling of isolationist agitation, with scores of Lindbergh, Wheeler, Nye, and other rallies in every section of the country, coupled with an intensified radio barrage.
4. Organization of a new political party to back isolationist congressional and state candidates in next year's crucial elections, as a prelude to a presidential ticket in 1944, headed by Lindbergh and Wheeler.

President Roosevelt was originally considered for an impeachment attack, but this was dropped as likely to boomerang against the America Firsters. It was also decided that such an attack would get nowhere on Capital Hill because of Democratic control of Congress.

Knox was substituted as the victim because he is the most outspoken cabinet exponent of war, has incurred much criticism because of attempts to censor the press, and is bitterly hated by Republican isolationists because he entered the Roosevelt cabinet.

It was the opinion of the America Firsters that these background factors would play powerfully into their hands in enabling them to start an impeachment hullabaloo.

Actually they know there is no chance to impeach Knox. Their real purpose is to get a congressional forum to wage a propaganda offensive against the President's foreign policies; also to push their secret political plans.

THE AMERICAN PARTY

These plans have been under consideration in the inner America First command for some time.

Two of the chief advocates of a new political party, are Lindbergh and Phil LaFollette, former Governor of Wisconsin and younger brother of isolationist U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette. Phil has

How Diagnosis Started Decline in Tuberculosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. At this time of the year when we are trying to help out the sale of Christmas seals to further the work of the National Tuberculosis Association, I should like to quote

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

a remarkable address I heard a doctor make to other doctors called, "The Historical Importance of Removing the Shirt."

He pointed out that in the pictures, cartoons and the general literature of the Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries the doctor was depicted as a very low fellow. In Hogarth's cartoons, Moliere's plays, in the novel "Gil Blas," the doctor is shown as a funny, ignorant, dirty, grafting quack. They made fun of his prattings, preachings, bumptious manner and especially his ignorance.

Attains New Dignity

At the beginning of the Nineteenth Century, however, the doctor suddenly assumes a character of dignity and nobility in literature and art. Stevenson and Thackeray, John Brown, Conan Doyle and Eakins show the doctor at work, and he is turned into a fellow of high principles and usefulness. What was the cause of the sudden change?

Dr. W. M. Dock of New York assigns the change to two discoveries, one being that of the Austrian, Auenbrugger, who invented a method of tapping the chest with the fingers (percussion) and that of the Frenchman, Laennec, who invented the stethoscope to listen to the chest. "Little me—Susan Ann Farmer of Ardendale—in one of those tall buildings!" said Susan. "Just imagine! And with all the folks down south listening to me. Goodness, just thinking about it makes me feel all trembly down inside."

Irene leaned toward Roy. "Maybe a drink would do her good," she said.

"Shut up!" said Roy. "What are you two mumbbling about?" Mr. Jones asked.

"Just a few last-moment suggestions," said Irene.

"And the band went on playing 'Dixie.'"

"I wish," said Rose Meyer wearily, "they'd change to 'Oh, Johnny, Oh' or 'Yankee Doodle'—I was never so tired of listening to one tune."

"If they'd only swing it," said Lily.

"Girls, girls!" said their mother. The parade moved on. Across Fifth avenue. . . . Across Madison.

"That," said Mr. Jones, pointing to the twin towers of the Astor-Waldorf, "is where you're going to stay, my dear."

Susan gasped. "In that great big hotel!" she said.

"Yes, my dear," said Mr. Jones. "But everything's going to be all right."

"Just ducky," said Irene under her breath.

Mrs. Jones eyed her husband across Susan Farmer, thinking, "Does he have to 'my dear' her like that—the sentimental old idiot?" Then, glancing sideling at Susan, she began to wonder. In fact, she did quite a bit of wondering—and most of it made her feel decidedly uneasy.

"All we need," said Roy, as they approached the hotel, "is a shower of ticker-tape, falling like snowflakes."

"You mean like when Lindbergh came home?" said Susan.

"Yes," said Roy, "just like that."

"And like when the daggle-sitting triplets arrived in the city," said Irene. She shrugged. "They also threw telephone directories."

"Goodness me!" said Susan. "Didn't anyone get hurt?"

"They tore them up first," Roy explained. "And don't pay too much attention to Miss Carter. She lets her sense of humor get the best of her at times."

"Oh!" said Susan.

"Yes, they tore up the directories first," said Irene. But when she saw the look Susan Farmer was giving Roy Leonard, she thought how nice it would be to throw a telephone directory which she hadn't bothered to tear up.

A few moments later Susan, the typical farmer's daughter, was being whisked up to one of the twin towers of the massive Park avenue hotel.

When everyone was crowded into the sitting room of the suite the Dainty Diana Dairies had reserved for Susan, Mr. Jones spoke.

"We've arranged a press conference for tomorrow morning at 11," he said.

"A press conference?" said Susan, wide-eyed. "Just what do you mean?"

"Reporters," said Roy. "From various papers."

"Oh!" said Susan. "You mean like those Mr. Roosevelt has?"

"And Mrs. Roosevelt, too," said Irene.

Susan smiled. "A sort of fireside chat, I see."

"Exactly," said Mr. Jones.

"But," said Susan, looking around, "I don't see any fireplace."

"Ouch!" said Irene softly. "Innocence personified, or a darned good actress."

"Keep quiet," Roy told her. And then to Susan: "Just use your imagination."

"Yes," said Mr. Jones. "And be natural. Act as though you were in the living room back home, talking to a lot of friends."

"I'll try," said Susan.

Mr. Jones patted her shoulder, and Mrs. Jones wanted to do something more strenuous to his.

"Talk about life on the farm," he said. "Give them some insight into what a typical farmer's daughter really thinks about."

"If they think," said Irene.

"What's that?" Mr. Jones demanded.

"Nothing," said Irene.

Mr. Jones went on. "Tell them about your pets, the chickens, how much milk Kameralda gives, and about the prizes your pickles and preserves have won at the County fairs."

"All right," Susan told him. "I'll do my best."

THE STARS SAY—
For Monday, November 24
Monday's astrological forecast holds augury for the attainment of high ambitions and cherished goals in the domain of business, finance, large projects as well as in the private pursuit of happiness, prestige and popularity. This situation may call for quick grasp and clever manipulation with energy and initiative but with restraint of tongue and temper. Also be keen toward snares, swindles and betrayals. Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of splendid prospect of fulfilling their loftiest ambitions, private and business, with expanding power, prestige and popularity. Swift action should be taken to this goal, with skill and energy, but alertness to fraud, intrigues, pitfalls and plots. In all such keep the tongue and temper and act with sagacity and restraint.

A child born on this day should have a very ambitious nature, with much adaptability, ingenuity and energy to back up its highest aspirations. It will be generous, warmhearted and popular as well.

BULLS DEFEATED BY KIMBROUGH AND GOTHAM 11

COLUMBUS, Nov. 24—Defeated 19-13 yesterday by the New York Americans in an exhibition game, the Columbus Bulls, champions of the American pro league left this morning for an exhibition game tour to the west coast.

A chilled audience of 6,500 spectators saw the Bulls in their local fadeout. The deciding points came on the first play of the second half when Rupe Pate, former Wake Forest fullback, intercepted Bob Davis' forward pass and romped 45 yards for a touchdown.

Columbus took a three point lead in the first period on a field goal by Joe Aleskus but the Americans counted twice in the second quarter, big John Kimbrough getting both scores. One came on a 15-yard end sweep and another on a pass from Charlie Armstrong which gained 30 yards.

After the Americans' touchdown in the third period, the Bulls marched 59 yards for another marker of their own. Vic Spada going over from the three-yard line. A field goal by Peterson from the 12-yard line completed the Bulls' scoring. A late threat by the Bulls was broken up when Kimbrough intercepted a pass on New York's 10-yard line.

Statistically, the Bulls were superior, outgaining the winners, 264 yards to 120 and scoring 17 first downs to four for the Americans.

GRID YEAR NEAR END WITH BOWL OFFERS AWAITED

By International News Service
 The cheers are fading, the victory bonfires are flickering low and today, as another football season of fun and glory is about to die, we find teams wearing the badge of champion in their respective sections and another famous football school rejoicing over its first unbeaten season in 11 years!

Led by mighty Minnesota, which won its second straight Big Ten championship, Duke, Texas A & M, Missouri and Utah were crowned leaders of their various conferences on Saturday while Notre Dame, despite a terrific battle, came through for Coach Frank Leahy and gave the Irish their first undefeated team since the Knute Rockne specialists of 1930.

The Golden Gophers, with their ace, Bruce Smith, running wild on an injured knee, turned in one of the most impressive wins of the week end, slaughtering a high-scoring Wisconsin machine, 41-6. It was the Gophers 17th straight win and definitely stamped them contenders for that now famous mythical championship.

Duke's Blue Devils assured themselves of at least a tie with William and Mary for the Southern Conference title by a 55-6 massacre of North Carolina State. William and Mary is likewise unbeaten.

Missouri wound up with the Big Six title, supplanting Nebraska, by beating Kansas, 45-6, while Texas A & M, which was idle, clinched the southwestern crown when Rice held T. C. U. to a 0-0 tie.

Texas Christian, prior to the Rice game, had a mathematical chance of tying the Aggies, but now, win or lose against the Texas Longhorns this week, the Aggies are home with undisputed honors in their district. Last year they shared the title with Southern Methodist.

Utah, like the Aggies, won the Rocky Mountain conference crown when Brigham Young, its only contender, was upset, 22 to 7, by Colorado State. Utah wound up its schedule Thursday with four wins and two ties while, prior to Saturday, Brigham Young had been unbeaten but tied twice.

Notre Dame had far more trouble than it had anticipated with a supposedly weak-sister USC eleven and only the tremendous passing of their sophomore ace, Angelo Bertelli, who completed 13 of 21 heaves for a total of 156 yards, plus two blocked kicks from point after touchdown, enabled the Irish to wind up their first season under Leahy with eight wins and a

BULLS DEFEATED BY KIMBROUGH AND GOTHAM 11

COLUMBUS, Nov. 24—Defeated 19-13 yesterday by the New York Americans in an exhibition game, the Columbus Bulls, champions of the American pro league left this morning for an exhibition game tour to the west coast.

A chilled audience of 6,500 spectators saw the Bulls in their local fadeout. The deciding points came on the first play of the second half when Rupe Pate, former Wake Forest fullback, intercepted Bob Davis' forward pass and romped 45 yards for a touchdown.

Columbus took a three point lead in the first period on a field goal by Joe Aleskus but the Americans counted twice in the second quarter, big John Kimbrough getting both scores. One came on a 15-yard end sweep and another on a pass from Charlie Armstrong which gained 30 yards.

After the Americans' touchdown in the third period, the Bulls marched 59 yards for another marker of their own. Vic Spada going over from the three-yard line. A field goal by Peterson from the 12-yard line completed the Bulls' scoring. A late threat by the Bulls was broken up when Kimbrough intercepted a pass on New York's 10-yard line.

Statistically, the Bulls were superior, outgaining the winners, 264 yards to 120 and scoring 17 first downs to four for the Americans.

GRID YEAR NEAR END WITH BOWL OFFERS AWAITED

By International News Service
The cheers are fading, the victory bonfires are flickering low and today, as another football season of fun and glory is about to die, we find teams wearing the badge of champion in their respective sections and another famous football school rejoicing over its first unbeaten season in 11 years!

Led by mighty Minnesota, which won its second straight Big Ten championship. Duke, Texas A & M, Missouri and Utah were crowned leaders of their various conferences on Saturday while Notre Dame, despite a terrific battle, came through for Coach Frank Leahy and gave the Irish their first undefeated team since the Knute Rockne specialists of 1930.

The Golden Gophers, with their ace, Bruce Smith, running wild on an injured knee, turned in one of the most impressive wins of the week end, slaughtering a high-scoring Wisconsin machine, 41-6. It was the Gophers 17th straight win and definitely stamped them contenders for that now famous mythical championship.

Duke's Blue Devils assured themselves of at least a tie with William and Mary for the Southern Conference title by a 55-6 massacre of North Carolina State. William and Mary is likewise unbeaten.

Missouri wound up with the Big Six title, supplanting Nebraska, by beating Kansas, 45-6, while Texas A & M, which was idle, clinched the southwestern crown when Rice held T. C. U. to a 0-0 tie.

Texas Christian, prior to the Rice game, had a mathematical chance of tying the Aggies, but now, win or lose against the Texas Longhorns this week, the Aggies are home with undisputed honors in their district. Last year they shared the title with Southern Methodist.

Utah, like the Aggies, won the Rocky Mountain conference crown when Brigham Young, its only contender, was upset, 22 to 7, by Colorado State. Utah wound up its schedule Thursday with four wins and two ties while, prior to Saturday, Brigham Young had been unbeaten but tied twice.

Notre Dame had far more trouble than it had anticipated with a supposedly weak-sister USC eleven and only the tremendous passing of their sophomore ace, Angelo Bertelli, who completed 13 of 21 heaves for a total of 156 yards, plus two blocked kicks from point after touchdown, enabled the Irish to wind up their first season under Leahy with eight wins and a tie.

BIERMAN BOYS TAKE BIG NINE LEAGUE HONORS

Gophers Roll To 41-6 Win Over Badgers; Tribute To Brown, Crisler

CHICAGO, Nov. 24—Hot stove league post mortems on whether Minnesota's 1941 champions were the equal of other great title-winning teams developed by Bernie Bierman were about all that remained today on the Big Ten Conference football agenda.

By rolling over Wisconsin, 41 to 6, last Saturday, the Golden Horde not only clinched the conference championship for the second straight year, but grabbed of most of the honors in other divisions of Big Ten statistical records as well. Their 41 points showed the Gophers out in front for team scoring with a 124-point total for their five conference games, and by holding the Badgers to six points they also copped the defensive scoring honors, with their five opponents tallying only 32 points.

So far as total yardage gained and yardage allowed, the Gophers had the high and low blue ribbons clinched before their final game.

In the conference, Minnesota won from Illinois, 34 to 6; Michigan, 7 to 0; Northwestern, 8 to 7; Iowa, 34 to 13, and Wisconsin, 41 to 6. Outside the circuit, they beat Washington, 14 to 6; Pitt, 39 to 0; and Nebraska, 9 to 0. By going through undefeated, the Gophers ran their consecutive victory string to 17 games, and the conference championship was their sixth in the ten seasons Bierman has served his alma mater as head coach.

While Bierman's record will rank with the season's best coaching jobs, impressive performances also were turned in by Fritz Crisler and Paul Brown, whose Michigan and Ohio State teams shared runnerup honors in the big ten race.

Efforts of the Wolverines and the Buckeyes to break their deadlock for second place resulted in their 20 to 20 tie at Ann Arbor last Saturday in one of the outstanding games of the year. Each wound up with three victories, one defeat and one tie, in the conference.

Th Buckeye record was a tribute to the ability of Brown, who was serving his first year as a college coach, after an impressive career at Massillon, O., high school. Michigan's showing represented a great rebuilding job for Crisler, who lost such stars as Tom Harmon, Forrest Evashevski and Ed Frutig from his 1940 team.

Northwestern's wildcats were tough luck team of the circuit losing by one touchdown to Michigan and one point to Minnesota for the second straight year.

JUZWIK, DeCORREVOIT ON CHARITY GAME OUTFIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame and Bill DeCorrevont of Northwestern will be among the Yankee All-Star players who will collide with a Negro all-star team next Sunday at the Polo Grounds for benefit of Catholic, Jewish and Negro charities, officials of the Associated Football Charities, Inc., sponsors of the game, disclosed today.

The Yankees will line up with several members of the New York American League team and a number of recruited collegians. The Negro eleven will be comprised of an all-colored roster gathered from throughout the nation. The Negro players will include Charley Anderson, Ohio State, Jim Walker, Iowa, Joe Lillard, formerly of Oregon State and Lou Montgomery, Boston College.

C.A.C. Court Season To Start Thursday Evening

Circleville Athletic Club's 1941-42 cage team which is expected to be the strongest to represent the organization in the last 10 years will be in action Thursday evening, on the local Curley Griffin's Bliss College quintet from Columbus to furnish the opposition.

The CAC boys will don new uniforms and be ready for a long campaign which will include at least 10 home games with the outstanding teams on the road.

Johnny Helskell, team manager, said that eight players would be carried during the season. Coach Carl Purcell picking his quintet from Roush, Whiting, Gregg, Roese, Millar, Smith, Cropp and Blankenship.

A preliminary in which the Blue Ribbon Dairy team will be one of the participants is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock, the big game beginning at 9.

Booster season tickets are being put on sale by the Athletic Club boys. All home games will be played in the C. A. C. gym.

With only a week of practice remaining before the first Circleville High basketball game, Coach Roy Black had his Tiger squad hard at work in the school gym Monday evening, with long and strenuous sessions being scheduled for the entire week. The Red and Black will go to Grove City Saturday night to open its schedule, and will play its first home game next Tuesday, December 2, when Lancaster invades the Athletic Club gymnasium. The following Friday, December 5, Greenfield McClain's SCO loop champions, come to Circleville.

The schedule calls for three games in seven days, rather a difficult test for a team that will have only five practices under its belt before the first game comes around.

Coach Black has the advantage of drilling a veteran team, lettermen being expected to fill all starting positions. The availability of Gerald Ayers, senior forward and guard, remains in doubt, the youth having some bruised leg muscles received in an alley football game. He hoped to be ready for the Grove City invasion.

Other lettermen around whom the team will be built include Moon, Valentine and Woods, forwards, Moorehead and Jackson, centers, and Geib, guard. Woods is not expected to be ready for the starter, a shoulder injury received in football being slow to mend.

Firemen Of City Open Their Annual Christmas Toy Repair Campaign

MENDING AND PAINTING JOB IS UNDER WAY

Workmen Expect Demands To Be Fewer This Year; Business Better

SEAL SALE IS STARTED

C. Of C. Members Meet For Discussion Of Friday Celebration

City firemen, Monday, began their toy repair program and for the next three weeks they will be busy mending toys for Circleville's needy children.

Already a few broken toys have come to the fire station as the result of fall housecleaning, but firemen expect most of their supply to come in within the next week.

Boys and girls who have old or broken toys are asked to take them to the fire station, where the toys will be mended and painted.

Distribution of the toys will be made either on the day before Christmas or on Christmas Day, Fire Chief Talmer Wise said, depending on the weather. Last year toy baskets were sent to 112 families in the city, reaching out to 172 girls and 153 boys.

Requests for toys this year probably will be fewer than last year, Chief Wise predicts, since many of the heads of relief families now have received private employment or are working on WPA. Business conditions in general are better than last year, the fire chief said, and many of the boys and girls who found firemen their only Santa Claus last year will receive toys from their parents this Christmas.

Health League Active

Meanwhile other agencies in the city likewise are beginning to think about their Christmas programs. The Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association, Monday, officially opened its Christmas seal sale, and already has mailed letters to more than 3,000 persons in the city and county asking them to support the campaign.

Chamber of Commerce members will meet in Betz' Restaurant Tuesday evening at 6:15, at which time Retail Merchants will complete plans for their Christmas parade and opening Friday.

Circleville banks this year will pay out $40,000 in Christmas club funds, most of which will be spent locally on Christmas purchases. Hulse Hays, postmaster, predicts the largest Christmas business in the history of Circleville Postoffice. He has ordered $7,000 worth of stamps to accommodate mailers and has recommended that persons having Christmas packages to go any great distance should get them in the mail before the first of December.

Mailing Dates Fixed

The postmaster expects a sizable volume of mail to go to army camps all over the country and even to foreign posts. He lists the following ship schedules from the United States to foreign ports: Latest dates of dispatch from New York: Argentina, December 5; Bahamas, December 20; Barbados, December 5; Bermuda, December 20; Bolivia, December 5; Brazil, December 5; Canal Zone, December 19; Chile, December 5; Columbia, December 12; Costa Rica, December 10; Cuba, December 21; Dominican Republic, December 18; Ecuador, December 5; Grenada, December 10; Guadeloupe, December 5; Guatemala, December 15; British Guiana, De-

Many students unable to attend during the autumn quarter are expected to return to their studies during the winter. already coined a name for the new party—The American Party.
At the secret Washington pow-wow the group agreed to constitute themselves a "nucleus" to set definite steps in motion to start a new party.

Local America First units will be used as the initial framework, and undercover scouts will be dispatched throughout the country to whip up political activity. Also discussed were plans to bring John L. Lewis actively into the movement.

The proposed anti-war drive among clergymen and the intensified general agitation plan are directly tied up with the political scheme. On the surface, however, there will be no connection.

For the present the inner America First moguls are carefully soft-pedaling their political ambitions. Their strategy is to organize a powerful body of public sentiment against Roosevelt's foreign policies; then come out in the open next spring with the political party scheme.

Some of the America First masterminds believe this plan opens the way to a possible capture of a large segment of the Republican organization, particularly in the Middle West.

NOTE: — Anti-isolationist leaders in Congress are preparing a bill to require all propaganda organizations, such as America First and Fight for Freedom, to make public their sources of income and expenditures. The measure is described as a "super-Hatch Act."
